

I Bet You Didn't Know

Type:   X   Introductory               Working               Closing               Game
Low Risk –                                      Growing Risk –                                      Ending –                                      Active Exercise –
Getting to know                                      Personal                                      Saying goodbye                                      For group building each other                                      awareness                                      and fun

Optimum Group Size: 5 - 15

Materials Needed: Pen or pencil, paper (use same color of pens and paper)

Outline of Activity:

1. Have each person write on a piece of paper something fun or interesting about themselves that they haven't shared yet. Fold up pieces of paper and put them in the middle of the group.
2. First person picks one, reads it aloud and tries to guess whose it is (one try). If it is an incorrect guess, fold the paper back up and put it back in the middle.
3. The next person then selects a piece of paper and does the same. This process continues until all papers have been matched up with the correct people.

Goal:

Group members have fun guessing.
Helps the group learn something new about each other.
Provides a check of how well the group is getting to know each other.

How to Process:

How did you decide what to write (serious or light)?
What made you guess the person you did?
How did you feel during this activity? Why?
What did you learn about others? About yourself?

Source or Submitted by: Mary Marvel, Teacher, London High School