

License Plates

Type:   X   Introductory            Working            Closing            Game
Low Risk –                                      Growing Risk –                                      Ending –                                      Active Exercise –
Getting to know                                      Personal                                      Saying goodbye                                      For group building each other                                      awareness                                      and fun

Optimum Group Size: Unlimited (divide into small groups)

Materials Needed: 8 1/2 x 11 paper folded length-wise, one piece per participant, markers.

Outline of Activity:

- > Distribute paper and pens.
- > Tell the participants that they will be making personalized license plates.
- > Ask them to think of a word or letters and numbers that have personal meaning and put them on the paper. The result should resemble a license plate from their state.
- > Have the participants put their license plates in front of them, tent-style on the tables, so that other group members can read them.
- > Share the meaning of the license plates with other group members.

Goal:

A fun way to share something new about each other with the group.

How to Process:

Ask for volunteers to share some of the most unique plates with the other groups.

Source or Submitted by: Sondra Peyser Hazouri and Miriam Smith McLaughlin, Warm Ups & Wind Downs